

The World Can Be Better Than Ever

Trying to make a safe space for all is very hard because there are always some people that are racist and treat people unfairly. Which leads to a lot of violence, sorrow and sadness. Just because those people are there. That's not stopping us from still trying to make a community where everyone is safe. To make that Community we all need to treat each other the way we want to be treated. We need to make fairness, freedom and people having equal rights not a rare thing anymore. We need it to happen all the time so everyone can be happy without discrimination.

The society we are in has people being discriminated, racially profiled and being made fun of for their religion or skin color or race. The way we could stop that is by treating people the way you think they should be treated. Over 7 to 10 black people have said that they have gotten into an encounter with the authorities for no apparent reason. Thousands of people died to discrimination like that. It is really messed up on how one person's skin color can make you not like them even to the point of killing. But to make a society where everyone is safe is almost impossible. We can still be happy and still try to make the world a better place.

To make true equality we would need to show all the people that are discriminating against people like me, that it's not right to hate people just because of your skin color, race or religion that is how we would make a society. Where everyone would be safe we couldn't change all their minds though because some people were born in a family that was racist so they were raised around it. It's very hard for them to give up the belief they've had for their entire life.

In conclusion, I think racial profiling and discrimination could all be reduced in time if we all try to be a better person. Because the world would be better if we all started treating each other more kindly. Just treating people like people not like animals or other things. so that is how bad racial profiling, discrimination, and inequality. and how we can fix it to make the world a better place.
